Dead in the Water

An Anthology of Canadian Mystery

You may just find your next vacation spot... or maybe not

Over eighty per cent of all Canadians live near a body of water—and that means when Canadians turn to crime, somebody usually ends up all wet.

Toronto Star Columnist and acclaimed mystery author, Lynwood Barclay introduces this anthology of original Canadian crime fiction, selected by editors Violette Malan and Therese Greenwood. These page-turning mysteries celebrate that most Canadian of locations: the ocean, lake or river near you.

With tales set across Canada, these shorts include award-winning authors like Dennis Richard Murphy whose story revisits the death of Group of Seven artist Tom Thompson, Barbara Fradkin whose 19th century haunting short story surrounds the arcane aspects of the medical profession, James Powell who masters the political mystery, and Rick Mofina whose dark Albertan story sees the consequences of picking on the wrong guy. Not to mention the crossover story from established fantasy writer Tanya Huff.

An excellent thematic anthology that all short story lovers can enjoy and relate to.
Authors from across the country with stories in settings across the country.
